

She sat down a bowshot away, because she said, “Do not let me see the boy die.”

This book is written for you — the woman holding it right now, wherever you are, whatever you’re facing.

It walks through the stories of women in Scripture who faced moments they did not choose: Hagar, alone in the desert. Jochebed, hiding her son under a death sentence.

Hannah, broken and desperate. Ruth, gleaning scraps to survive. Rahab, risking everything on a God she barely knew. Mary, young and frightened and saying yes.

Esther, placed where she needed to be for such a time as hers.

Every one of them carried something whose purpose was larger than anything they could see.

Everything in these pages comes from Scripture. We didn’t add to it. We just told the stories and let God’s Word speak for itself.

*“Before I formed you in the womb I knew you,
before you were born I consecrated you.”*

— Jeremiah 1:5

Before I Formed You

What God Says to the Woman Holding This Book

Paul & Pam Hainline