

About the Author

Paul Hainline writes using the Berean approach of examining the Scriptures daily to see whether these things are so (Acts 17:11), and letting Scripture interpret Scripture.

He is the author of multiple books on Bible study, evangelism, and Christian living, including From the Beginning, Change the Mind Change the Man, The Character No One Could Invent, Why Do You Delay, Bridge Moments, The Last Week of the Lamb, and Can These Bones Live?

He writes with his wife Pam on books for teenagers, including Your Name Means Everything: A Good Name and Strength and Dignity.

NobleMind Press

noblemind.study

“Therefore, brethren, since we have confidence to enter the holy place by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way which He inaugurated for us ... let us draw near with a sincere heart in full assurance of faith.”

— Hebrews 10:19–22

For most of human history the door was closed.

Hagar prayed in the wilderness and named the God who saw her. Abraham stood before the Lord and bargained for Sodom. Moses spoke with God face to face — but most of Israel was held back by a thick curtain that no priest dared cross more than once a year. And then, on a Friday afternoon, that curtain tore from top to bottom.

This book walks the whole story — from the first cries in Eden through the patriarchs and the tabernacle, to the cross that opened the veil, to the prayers of the early church, and into the life of prayer believers can actually live now.

If you have ever wondered whether God is really listening — or whether prayer is something more than wishful thinking — this book invites you to step through the door that Christ has already opened.

Scripture quotations from the New American Standard Bible® (NASB).

NobleMind Press

noblemind.study

A New and Living Way

Paul Hainline

A New and Living Way

What the Bible Teaches About Prayer

PAUL HAINLINE

On the night before His own death, the Son of God knelt in a garden and prayed.

And in that prayer, every truth this book is trying to explain came into view: a God who hears, a Son who draws near, a door that is about to open.

“Let us draw near with a sincere heart in full assurance of faith.”

— Hebrews 10:22

For most of human history that nearness was unimaginable. The veil stood. Most of Israel never crossed it. And yet Scripture is full of prayer — Hagar at the well, Abraham before the Lord, Hannah at Shiloh, David in his songs, Daniel in his window.

How did they pray before the veil was torn? And how do we pray now that it has been?

Twelve chapters across five parts, walking from the first cries in Eden to the prayers of the early church, with every claim shown from the text.

The door has been open for two thousand years. It was opened at tremendous cost. And far too many of us have been standing just outside it, praying like the veil still stands.