

“From everyone who has been given much, much will be required; and to whom they entrusted much, of him they will ask all the more.”

— Luke 12:48

Most people feel one of two things when they think about artificial intelligence: awe or dread. Both grow from the same root — they do not actually know what the thing is.

A Bible student sits down across the table from the tool he has been using daily and asks it, in plain English, what it actually is. The machine answers — set apart on the page, in its own voice — and the book that follows is the long form of that conversation.

Made, Not Written shows in three movements that the mystery is real but it is not magic; that consciousness, creativity, and the mirror problem each sit exactly where the evidence sits, neither lower nor higher; and that the real moral question turns out to be an ancient one. Babel revisited. The mixed heart. Stewardship under a Maker who is coming back.

Warm, not breathless. Sober, not fearful. Where Scripture speaks, it leads.

Scripture quotations from the New American Standard Bible® (NASB).

NobleMind Publishing
noblemind.study

Made, Not Written

A Bible Student Looks at the Machine

PAUL HAINLINE

NOBLEMIND PUBLISHING