

*“Therefore, brethren, since we have confidence to enter the holy place by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way which He inaugurated for us ...
let us draw near with a sincere heart
in full assurance of faith.”*

— Hebrews 10:19–22

For most of human history the door was closed.

Hagar prayed in the wilderness and named the God who saw her. Abraham stood before the Lord and bargained for Sodom. Moses spoke with God face to face — but most of Israel was held back by a thick curtain that no priest dared cross more than once a year. And then, on a Friday afternoon, that curtain tore from top to bottom.

This book walks the whole story — from the first cries in Eden, through the patriarchs and the tabernacle, to the cross that opened the veil, to the prayers of the early church, and into the life of prayer believers can actually live now. Twelve chapters across five parts, with every claim shown from the text.

If you have ever wondered whether God is really listening — or whether prayer is something more than wishful thinking — this book invites you to step through the door that Christ has already opened.
